The COVID-19 pandemic has brought not only huge disruptions to businesses worldwide, but also underlined the need for concerted efforts in strengthening and innovating the global health landscape for a resilient and sustainable future. The changing demographics of Asia, coupled with tremendous demand for healthcare related products, technologies and solutions, represent ample business and investment opportunities in the region.

Jointly organised by the Government of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region and the Hong Kong Trade Development Council (HKTDC), the inaugural Asia Summit on Global Health (ASGH) themed “Shaping a Resilient and Sustainable Future” will be held in hybrid format offering both online and physical participation. The event is a one-stop cross-disciplinary platform that will bring together senior government officials, investors, influential business leaders, financial and professional service providers as well as renowned academia from related sectors from around the world to exchange insights and to explore business opportunities and partnership.
